THE bondholders of the Belmont Mill have made an assessment of 51 per cent on the par value of their bonds ($200,000) to pay off certain charges, expenses, &c. that have accrued, amounting to $10,16339, including $3,650 for bonds that were hypothecated and could not come into the purchasing arrangement, and including also $1,500 commissions, lawyers fees, &c. incurred by the sale, and $1,500 for insurance, and $2,000 for taxes.

standing out in litigation. This action on its part, after a reasonable investigation, did much to popularize the Company, and now that it has initiated the new departures alluded to above it must become more popular than ever.

Life insurance has been under a cloud for several years past, owing to the number of failures among the companies, and owing also to a disposition to litigate on the part of some of them. Failures and litigation have caused a widespread popular distrust of this method of providing for a family in case of death. Life insurance is one of the most sacred of contracts, and it ought to be surrounded by every and it ought to be surrounded by every safeguard that can assure payment after A New Richmond in the Field for toviaw suit to their families, and hence the new step taken by the Posts and hence the Riche Gazette. new step taken by the Equitable will Noticing by the Register that our distin-

This ought not to be the case. There should be nothing arbitrary or speculative about such payments. A fair surrender value should be ascertained and made known to every person who asks for an insurance. Insurance would not then be the blind operation that it is now. People would be easy in their minds as regards their of a surrender. We published an account be easy in their minds as regards their risks under all circumstances of life or

DOWN THE RIVER. of Daniel Schroder-A Miseegenatic Excitement at New Martinsville The Coming Vote on the Substitute fo the County Court System in Wetzel. NEW MARTINSVILLE, July 2, 1879.

This is a hot, sultry day, streets dusty and deserted, houses closed and to all appearances no one at home-even the files bite lazily. The cool of evening will, however, change all this; houses will be thrown open and our streets will be again peopled with bustling, busy, active life, Harvesting is progressing finely. This is a very busy time for the farmers. I see very lew of them in town. Occasionally one comes in for "groceries" for his harvest hands. The crops that are now being gathered are unusually fine. Our old friend John R. Brown has seventy-six acres of wheat here, in Ohio River bottime of the last Republican Congressional tom, which will average twenty-five or thirty bushels per acre.

Convention in this district, has we are glad to see, discovered at last the true source of agricultural prosperity in West Virginia, and especially in his own county. He says:

"Every load of lumber, every lot of wool, every bushel of wheat or every drove of cattle, shipped from Ritchie county, adds to the wealth of the people. Such transactions as these, are all income and no outgo. The above are some of the things we are now exporting. Let the work proceed and our prosperity is assured."

Better words than these have not appeared in the Gazette for many days. Morris strikes the bull's eye, so to speak, when he talks in that style. The source of all prosperity is thus happily set forth. A thousand millions of greenbacks added to the currency could not benefit farmers who have nothing to sell, and those who have plenty to sell do not need inflation, and of all others they should be most opposed to it. There is no patent method of enhancing real values, and bogus ones are always to be THE CASE OF SCHRODER down on hard pan where the farmer can reap and sow, buy and sell, without fear as to prices. He stands on a common level with the rest of the world. What he receives is genuine, and the demand for his products can be counted on as something that has not been artificially stimulated and that will not fall off or become bankrupt to-morrow. This is the beauty of doing business on a solid foundation.

New Bepartures in Insurance.

What is known as the Howland insurance law went into effect in Ohio on the lat of this month. Under this law insurance companies are compelled, in case the loss is total, to pay the full amount of the policy. The effect of it will be to make agents more careful in estimating the value. They out up at the "Brast House," reg-We had quite a sensation here on agents more careful in estimating the value of the property they insure.

Another new departure—and a voluntary change, by the way,—is a radical innovation in the life insurance business.

The Equitable Company, of New York, one of the largest and best companies in the country, has determined on the following new methods of doing business in the luttre.

1. Policies will be made incontestible after three years from their date.

2. Each ordinary policy will provide for a definite surrender value in paid up assurance in case the policy is forfeited after three years from its date.

3. Each Tontine policy will contain a definite surrender value in paid up assurance in case the policy will contain a definite surrender value in case of withdrawal at the end of the Tontine period.

4. The contract will be concisely and clearly extended that they were not married at all. And appeared that they were not married at all. And appeared that they were not married at all. And appeared that they were not married at all. And in the complaint being made our Mayor, Mr. T. F. Patton, issued a warrant for their arrest upon a charge of violating our ordinance prohibiting prostitution within the corporate limits of our village. The parties were arrested and committed to jail, being confined in separate apartments until Monday morning at nine colock, when they were brought out for trial. The corporation was represented by Attorney Basil T. Bowers, while Rob't. McEldowney, Esq., appeared for the prisoners discharged from custody by the mayor upon the condition that they pay all costs and leave the town forthwith, which they agreed to do. out a policy. He is thereby assured that no informality or technicality can result in the loss of benefits to his family, and this is a danger to which all insured persons have been exposed at the hands of companies inclined to be litigious.

The second of the proposed reforms by the Equitable is likewise a very imporportant departure, viz: the payment of a proper surrender value of a policy. Many persons are deterred from taking out policy by the party might be desired for the proposed at the brains. No man in the State could fill the Executive chair with more grace or ability than this same George P. Sargent, of Barbour, this nomination and election would be rewarding one of a class of men who receive for the purpose, at Margantown, we fix to the people—that class being members of the press.
